Motivation versus Discipline – Getting the Job Done

with Guest Speaker Sue Watson

Topic Description - Motivation stems from having a willingness, or desire, to do something.

Discipline is the practice of training people, or training oneself, to obey rules or a code of behavior. It's the controlled performance necessary to get a job done. It is orderliness and the good behavior of being obedient for the sake of results.

Sue will help us decide which one we might need a bit more of and address the pros and cons of each.

Bio - Anything is possible! Sue's "can do" attitude brings energy and ideas for reshaping, updating and upgrading your business.
